NOTES:

(1) There are two main measures of unemployment; Claimant Count and the International Labour Organisation (ILO) definition (See information sheet E2 for the definition of ILO Unemployment). The claimant count is an administrative measure of the number of people claiming unemployment-related benefits.

The claimant count can be used where it does not matter that the data are not internationally comparable or where data are required for smaller areas. The claimant count is accurate at all geographical levels because it is a complete count.

The claimant count of the unemployed records the number of people claiming unemployment-related benefits at Employment Service local offices. These are currently the Job Seeker's Allowance (JSA) and National Insurance (NI) credits. People claiming JSA must declare that they are out of work, capable of, available for and actively seeking work during the week in which the claim is made. They enter into a Jobseeker's agreement setting out the action they will take to find work and to improve their prospects of finding employment. JSA was introduced in October 1996 and this replaced Unemployment Benefit and unemployment-related Income Support. Claimant count unemployment rates were introduced for local authority districts in July 1998. These figures are not seasonally adjusted.

The unemployment rates (residence based proportions) express the number of claimants resident in an area as a percentage of the working age population resident in that area. Working age is defined as 16-64 for males and 16-59 for females. The working age population figures are derived from the mid-year Population Estimates.

Proportions are available from 2001 onwards for local authorities, learning and skills councils, regions (government office and standard statistical) and countries. Data is also now available at ward level. Analyses for Census Area Statistics (CAS) wards, which in England and Wales mostly relate to 2003, are available back to March 2004. To provide for analysis by wards where there has been subsequent boundary changes in England and Wales, total claimant counts and flows by sex will now be published, back to October 2004, for the 2004 statistical wards. These areas take account of boundary changes in 2004 or 2005, which were anticipated at 31 December 2003.

The unemployment rate denominators are updated annually. When new denominators are introduced, previously published unemployment rates are recalculated using the updated figures. For example, unemployment rates for the period January 2003 to December 2003 would be calculated using the Mid 2003 denominator, whereas the denominators for Mid 2004 are used to calculate rates from January 2004 to the current month. When updated denominators for Mid-2005 are introduced the unemployment rates from January 2005 onwards will be recalculated.

(2) Under Local Government Reorganisation, on the 1 April 1998 Telford & Wrekin became a Unitary Authority and Shropshire County Council was formed to cover the remainder of former Shropshire. In publications prepared by the Planning Policy Group figures relating to the former area of Shropshire are referred to as 'Shropshire and Telford & Wrekin'. Figures for the new County Council area are referred to as 'Shropshire'. Official claimant count unemployment rates became available for Shropshire in July 1998, along with the district rates.
